~ Traveling with Friends ~ New Friends

Most dogs will follow you around if you give them some table scraps. But, not many dogs would be willing to run a 1,100-mile marathon. Well, that is just what one stray dog from China recently did.

Xiao Sa, the stray dog, began its incredible journey when one of the cyclists gave her some food on the side of the road. It didn't take long for Xiao Sa to decide to tag along. After all, what does a stray dog want more than anything in the world? My guess would be a pack to run with, especially if they have food to spare.

Since then she's become a celebrity in her homeland and a micro blog recording her life online has attracted more than 37,000 followers in two weeks.

Zang Heng, a student in Wuhan, Hubei province, had decided to cycle to Lhasa as a graduation trip with friends when he met the lonely dog.

"She was lying, tired, on the street around Yajiang, Sichuan province," he told China Daily. "So we fed her, and then she followed our team."

During their journey, Xiao Sa, Zhang and his team covered 1,138 miles and climbed 10 mountains higher than 4,000m.

"Many people stopped cycling in some sections, then took the bus, but the dog made it," Mr Heng added.

A Dollar Per Point

A professor was giving a big test one day to his students. He handed out all of the tests and went back to his desk to wait. Once the test was over, the students all handed the tests back in. The professor noticed that one of the students had attached a $100 bill to his test with a note saying,

"A dollar per point."

The next class the professor handed the tests back out. This student got back his test and $56 change.

Report Card

Ralph's father said, "Let me see your report card."

Ralph replied, "I don't have it."

"Why not?" His father asked.

"My friend just borrowed it. He wants to scare his parents."
